General Program Outcome Information

The Rehabilitation Counseling program at Auburn University is fully accredited by the Council on Rehabilitation Education (CORE) during the accreditation cycle 2011-2019.

The Rehabilitation Counseling program is a 60 credit hour program that is available by distance education and on campus. Most students complete the master’s degree in 5 or 6 semesters. The approximate cost of tuition is $4131 per semester plus fees. More information on tuition, fees, and other financial services can be found here: http://www.auburn.edu/administration/business_office/sfs/

We currently DO have any RSA scholarships available. There are several other opportunities available through the Scholarship Office. More information on scholarships can be found here: http://www.auburn.edu/scholarship/

There are currently 28 full time students enrolled in the Rehabilitation Counseling program.

For the 2013 - 2014 academic year, a total of 10 students graduated from the program. Of these students, 30% were from underrepresented groups including people with disabilities. Eighty per cent (80%) of these students obtained employment in the field of Rehabilitation Counseling within six months of graduation. Graduates are found working in positions with state agencies, federal agencies, non-profit agencies, private sector rehabilitation, and other related areas.

Students must sit for the CRC examination during the last semester of their program. Students who exit the program are eligible for licensure as a professional counselor in the state of Alabama with the course work required in the program. Additional requirements will need to be met to achieve the supervision requirements set forth by the state licensing board.
